| Bahraini Woman in Numbers2015 (English), second edition Bahraini women today are at a more advanced stage in the process to build a sustainable society and have a greater ability to attain the highest positions in the Kingdom, whereby women in Bahrain today are Ministers, Judges and Business Women, while maintaining their natural presence as a family nurturer, which in turn is a nurturer of the nation as a whole. Perhaps the most contributing factor to enhance the advancement of Bahraini women has been the harmony between official and civil efforts which has led to a fast improvement in the status of Bahraini women and its progress. This is reflected through the conviction that comprehensive development cannot be achieved without the advancement of the status of women, who represent half of the society. https://www.scw.bh/en/MediaCenter/Documents/Final-Numbers-May-2016.pdf |    |

| Bahraini Woman in Figures2008 (Arabic) Bahrain has taken pioneering steps in the advancement of women and the development of their capabilities and the activation of their participation in society. This was confirmed by statistical results that showed the extent of development similar to Bahraini women in various sectors of education, health, economic, social and political. Perhaps the most enhanced process of action for the advancement of women in the Kingdom of Bahrain is the harmony between public and private efforts, which in turn contributed to bring about changes in conditions and advancement of Bahraini women.  |   |

Gender-Focused Publications

Training for Women Entrepreneurs in Managing Micro, Small- and Medium-Sized Enterprises: Views of participants (Executive Summary)

2011 (English – Arabic)

The main purpose of this study is to identify the views of women trained to run micro, small and medium enterprises towards the programs in which they participated. These programs aimed to develop and strengthen the skills and knowledge of women entrepreneurs to enhance their abilities to succeed in the enterprises they wish to establish.

Summary of VAW study in Kingdom of Bahrain (2005-2006)

2009 (English-Arabic)

The objectives of the study focused on identifying the extent of the spread of violence against women in the Kingdom of Bahrain, in terms of its causes, and its implications on either the woman or the society as a whole. Given the multiplicity of social fields, in which violence is practiced, it has been limited to two fields, namely the field of family and work, however this does not mean that there is no reference to other social fields which interrelate to the family and work, such as the media, educational and legislative fields. The study was divided into six chapters, including Introduction, methodology in terms of theme, objectives, examined cases in terms of statistical and qualitative analysis, conclusions, result of the survey and trends towards the phenomenon, statistical data, analysis and presentations of results, with some recommendations and proposals, presentation of experiences of some Arab countries.
